BE CREDITOR COUNTRY IS JAPAN'S AMBITION

Faldo, Dec. 21.—"Be a creditor country" is the slogan of Baron Kenjiro Den, a prominent member of the house of peers, with reference to the future prospects of Japanese finance. The baron, in an interview, expressed wonder why Japan's financial authorities do not believe in the advisability of the redemption of foreign debts at this opportunity. He says that the present is not only the best chance for Japan to liquidate her foreign debt, but also the time to re-purchase any domestic bonds which have passed into the hands of foreigners.

He declared: "It is not certain when this war will end, but it is quite certain that if it lasts much longer, foreign holders of Japanese securities will be compelled to dispose of them. For this reason Japanese bonds will decline in market value. When this happens, Japan should not hesitate to purchase them. Japan's ambition in the future must be, as far as finance is concerned, to get rid of the heavy foreign debts and then become a creditor country. To attain such an ambition, it is first of all necessary that the heavy debts be paid off. The next important step is to become a big industrial country. There are pessimists who say that the present business prosperity is solely due to the circumstances created by the war, and as soon as peace is restored and European industry resumes normal conditions Japan will again be beaten in competition."

But the baron is of opinion that such pessimistic views are based on timidity. He thinks that the powers now at war will take a considerable time to recuperate and the increasing war loans will add considerably to the burden of the population. The increased cost of production in Europe after the war will be a cause for increased exports from Japan of various manufactured articles. Therefore will continue favorably to this country for many years to come.

OTHER CHURCHES

Will Have Special Services on Christmas Day—Music at Grace Church.

The only Christmas services that will be held in the churches of Anderson on Christmas day will be at the Episcopal church. Special services will be held in all of the churches of other denominations on Sunday following.

The first of the services at Grace Episcopal church will begin at 11:30 P. M. Christmas Eve and will last one hour. These services have been held in Anderson for the past two years and have proven very popular, being one of the prettiest services of the year.

This service will be one of song and the following Christmas hymns will be sung:

"Joy to the World, the Lord is Come."
"O, Come All Ye Faithful!"
"O, Little Town of Bethlehem!"
"And It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

The offertory anthem will be: "Let Us Now Go Forth to the Town of Bethlehem."

The singing will be especially pretty since an extra large chorus will assist the regular members of the choir.

AT THE THEATRES

AT THE ANDERSON

"EVERYWOMAN"

Scats Are Now on Sale For This Spectacle.

The extraordinary success of the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman" in several European countries as well as in America, serves to endow with interest the announcement that Henry W. Savage will offer his production at the Anderson theatre December 29. "Everywoman" is an absolutely novel idea in theatricals and is difficult of classification. It is not, properly speaking, drama, although it contains the elements of drama—tense situations with powerful dramatic scenes; it is not opera, though in its texture there are twenty-six musical numbers of serious and dignified character; and it is not wholly spectacle, though in recent years no other production has been mounted so lavishly and with such utter disregard for cost. It has been largely a labor of love on the part of the producer, Henry W. Savage, for astute managers could not see, during the long months of preparation preceding the first performance, how one with such unerring judgment could risk an outlay of upward of sixty thousand dollars on an experiment for precedent. That Mr. Savage's judgment was correct has been proven by the enormous success which has been achieved by "Everywoman." It is safe to assert that no other production within the memory of the present day theatre has aroused such interest or has earned so much written and spoken approval. The pages of the magazines have been filled with reviews and critical estimates of the work; ministers, priests and rabbis have chosen it as the subject of their discourses, and the theatres where it has been played have been engulfed by humanity rush to see the extraordinary play.

Walter Browne, the author, whose tragic death on the morning of the day of the first performance of the work upon which he has labored ten years, found his inspiration in "Everywoman," the ancient morality play which was performed throughout America a few years ago by a band of English players under the leadership and direction of Ben Greet.

The funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Broadmouth church by Rev. H. W. Burris, after which the remains were laid to rest in the church cemetery.

He was a consecrated member of the Baptist church and served as a deacon for a number of years. At the outbreak of the civil war he was among the first in his community to enlist, and served throughout the war. Beas Made Him Wealthy.
In Farm and Fields we meet of a man who became well-to-do through bookkeeping.

To a friendly impulse to help out an old neighbor who had fallen upon evil times and was compelled to move away, Carl E. Berryman, a retired business man of Merick county, New York, over the possession of the largest spring in his state, and in control of a most profitable business. Mr. Berryman's health had compelled Mr. Berryman to quit business, and the loss of his wife had left him a lonely and prematurely old man.

Last year Mr. Berryman marketed 25,000 pounds of honey at an average price of about over $1.00 for his best's pleasant work. Not only did he derive his income from his spring, but he has drawn from it a great deal of health and pleasure. Retiring from his work at fifty years of age, with approximately a half million of the best to him, as a result of the close attention to indoor affairs, he is today perfectly well and happy.

Money in Growing Flux.
How to make money from tax is explained by a writer in Farm and Fields, the national farm paper published by Springfield, Ohio.

"It may be advantageous," he writes, "in some regions where tax can be satisfactorily produced to know that at North Brookfield, Massachusetts, the only farm still in the United States, and known as The Phoenix Lumber Company, is very much handicapped by the difficulty of getting a supply of low iron from Russia on account of the war. The company has been able to get only a small amount of medium flux from North-western states.

"To make the best flux the flux is not permitted to go to seed before being cut. The variety of flux that is grown for the use of a different variety of flux from that which the flux is manufactured from, and is not as profitable to grow. But to get the best results from the flux, it must be cut at the right time, and it must be used, and it must have suitable treatment and be cured according to the very best methods. The Agricultural Department at Washington will give an important information to those who desire to grow flux either for its use as iron, and especially the flux mill officials would be glad to furnish complete information."

THIRTY PER CENT PROFIT ON SPECULATION EVEN GREATER PROFIT ON INVESTMENT

We have a single tract of approximately 500 acres of rich, Chatham-like river bottom land, situated in Stewart county Georgia, within twenty five miles of Columbus, which we will sell for SEVENTY PER CENT of what adjacent farm lands are selling for now.

Of this entire plantation, there is and portion of about 300 acres which we would sell separately. Of this smaller tract there are 120 acres cleared, and under cultivation now, the balance about 180 acres, is in woodland. On the entire plantation, there are fifteen tenant houses, barns and necessary outbuildings, and one large eight room dwelling house. The so-called axle railroad runs through this place, and there is a track on the farm. There are 40 acres of land bearing Pecan trees on the plantation at present.

This is a very desirable plantation, a good practical farmer, of full determination, some means, and who is at all afraid of the work necessary in the management of such a plantation, this offers the opportunity of a lifetime.

Our only reason for offering this magnificent plantation at such a tremendous sacrifice is strictly a personal one, and we will give it to all interested parties privately.

We will pay the expense of a trip to Stewart county if the investigator, or his backers, buy the tract of land or any part of it. There are quite a few Anderson county people living in Stewart county Ga. now.
